Chapter 1: General provisions

(Purposes)

Article 1.

The purposes of these provisions are to stipulate matters that are necessary for management of corporate documents by the Japan Agency for Medical Research and Development (hereinafter referred to as "AMED") based on the provisions of Article 13.1 of the Public Records and Archives Management Act (Act No. 66 of 2009; hereinafter referred to as the "Act"), and thereby strive to manage corporate documents appropriately, which will result in AMED's work being properly and efficiently operated and the fulfillment of AMED's duty of explaining its various activities to current and future citizens.

(Definitions)

Article 2.

In these provisions, the definitions of the terms stated in each of the items below will be as stated in each of the relevant items.

- (1) Corporate documents: These refer to documents, drawings, and electronic records (including records that were created by an electronic method, a magnetic method, or another method by which perception by human senses is not possible; hereinafter the same) that were officially created or obtained by Board Members and Employees of AMED (hereinafter referred to as the "Board Members or Employees") and that AMED possesses as matters that AMED's Board Members and Employees will use systematically. Provided, however, that official journals, government reports, newspapers, magazines, books, and other publications issued for the purpose of being sold to a large number of unspecified people are excluded.
- (2) Corporate document files: These refer to corporate documents (limited to documents for which it is appropriate to make the preservation period the same) that have a mutually close relationship and that were put together into one collection (hereinafter referred to as the "Corporate Document File") and corporate documents that are managed independently in order to contribute to AMED's efficient handling of clerical work and business and appropriate preservation of corporate documents.
- (3) Corporate document file management register: This refers to a register that states the classifications, names, preservation periods, dates when preservation periods will expire, measures when preservation periods expire, preservation places, and other necessary matters for the Corporate Document File for the purpose of appropriately managing the Corporate Document File at AMED.
- (4) Document management system: This refers to an intranet system that uses a web browser that uniformly and electronically manages AMED's corporate documents.
- (5) Confidential documents: These refer to corporate documents in which the nondisclosure information stipulated in Article 5 of the Act on Access to Information Held by Incorporated Administrative Agencies (Act No. 140 of 2001; hereinafter referred to as the "Incorporated Agency Information Access Act") was recorded and for which there is a particular necessity to prevent leaks of the content of the matter (hereinafter referred to as the "Necessity for Maintaining Confidentiality").

Chapter 2: Management system

(General document manager)

Article 3.

- 1. AMED will have one general document manager.
- 2. The Executive Director will serve as the general document manager.
- 3. The general document manager will conduct the clerical work stated below.

- 2. The managing director of the Department of General Affairs will serve as the assistant general document manager.
- 3. The assistant general document manager will assist the general document manager for the clerical work stated in each item of Article 3.3.
- 4. The assistant general document manager can appoint the director of the Division of General Affairs as an assistant to the assistant general document manager and have that person conduct practical assistance for the clerical work stipulated in each of the items of Article 3.3.

(Chief document manager)

Article 4-2

- 1. AMED will have a chief document manager.
- 2. The director of the department or office (hereinafter referred to as the "Department or Office") stipulated in Article 10 of the Organization Regulations (Regulation No. 4 of 2015) will serve as the chief document manager.
- 3. The chief document manager will be in charge of the clerical work stated in each item of Article 5.3 for the corporate documents that the chief document manager manages.

(Document managers)

Article 5.

- 1. AMED will have document managers.
- 2. The directors of the divisions stipulated in Article 11 through Article 17-2 of the Organization Regulations and the overseas offices stipulated in Attached Table of the Organization Regulations will serve as document managers. Provided, however, that in the event that the chief document manager designated other people, this will not apply.
- As the people responsible for conducting document management related to the clerical work under their jurisdiction, they will conduct the clerical work stated below for the corporate documents that they manage.
 - (1) Preservation
 - (2) Setting measures for when the preservation period ends
 - (3) Making statements in the corporate document file management register
 - (4) Transfer or disposal (including making statements in a register of transfer and disposal)
 - (5) Inspection of the management situation
 - (6) Creation of corporate documents, organization of corporate documents according to Attached Table 1, and other guidance for employees in relation to management of corporate documents

(Assistant Document managers)

Article 6.

- 1. AMED will have one or more assistant document managers.
- 2. The people in charge of general management who were designated by the document managers will serve as the assistant document managers. After designating the assistant document managers, the document managers must promptly report their names and positions to the assistant general document manager.
- 3. The assistant document managers will provide practical assistance to the document managers for the clerical work stated in each of the items of Article 5.3.

(Person responsible for audits)

Article 7.

- 1. AMED will have a person responsible for audits.
- 2. The director of the Office of Audit will serve as the person responsible for audits.
- The person responsible for audits will conduct audits concerning the state of management of corporate documents.

(Supervisory division)

Article 8.

The supervisory division for document management will be the Division of General Affairs, Department of General Affairs.

(Duties of the Board Members and Employees)

Article 9.

The Board Members and Employees must comply with the intent of the Act and follow related laws and regulations, ordinances, and provisions and the instructions of the general document manager and the document managers, and manage corporate documents properly.

Chapter 3: Creation

(Principle of valuing documents)

Article 10.

Except for cases in which the matter related to the handling is insignificant, based on the provisions of Article 11 of the Act, employees must follow the document managers' instructions and create documents in order to rationally leave evidence of and make it possible to verify the processes of reaching decisions, including backgrounds, at AMED and the results of AMED's clerical work and business in order to contribute to accomplishing the purposes of Article 1 of the Act.

(Preparation of documents, etc.)

Article 11.

- 1. For the work stated in Attached Table 1, documents will be created by referring to the types of corporate documents in that table.
- 2. In accordance with the principle of valuing documents pursuant to Article 10, records of meetings, etc. (hereinafter referred to as the "meetings, etc.") affecting the planning of projects and policies for administration and the implementation of projects related to the matters listed in Appended Table 1, including internal meetings and negotiations with external parties, etc., will be created.

3. In principle, documents will be created or obtained as electronic media, except in cases where creation and preservation in paper media is required by laws or regulations or where electronic management would make operations inefficient.

(Appropriate and efficient document creation)

Article 12.

- 1. When creating documents, information, such as forms and materials, which can be used repeatedly, will be provided for employees' use by utilizing electronic message boards.
- 2. For the creation of documents, accurate and concise statements will be made by using easily understood characters and terms, and reference will be made to the list of Chinese characters designated for everyday use (Cabinet Notification No. 2 of 2010), modern kana orthography (Cabinet Notification No. 1. of 1986), the usage of kana for indicating the reading of Chinese characters (Cabinet Notification No. 2 of 1973), and the writing of words of foreign origin (Cabinet Notification No. 2 of 1991).
- 3. When a document is created, its contents shall, in principle, be checked by more than one employee before being confirmed by the document manager to ensure the accuracy of the document. If instructions are received from high level persons, such as board members, regarding the creation of the document, the document will also be verified by the person who provided the instructions.
- 4. When creating records of meetings, etc. with persons external to AMED, not only shall the records be verified by attendees from AMED but also, to the extent possible, the other party to the meetings, etc. (hereinafter referred to as the "other party") shall verify their statements to ensure the accuracy of the document. However, if it is difficult to establish a record of the portions stated etc. by the other party, it will be recorded in such a way as to allow the purport of such statement, etc. to be discerned.

Chapter 4: Arrangement

(Employees' obligation for arrangement)

Article 13.

Employees must follow the provisions of Article 14 and Article 15 to conduct the arrangements stated below.

- (1) Classify and name the corporate documents that were created or acquired, and set a preservation period and the date when the preservation period will expire.
- (2) Gather corporate documents that have a mutually close relationship into a Corporate Document File.

(3) Classify and name the Corporate Document File of the previous item, and set a preservation period and the date when the preservation period will expire.

(Classifications and names)

Article 14.

For classification of a Corporate Document File, three stages of classification (for the work stated in Attached Table 1, classification after referring to that table) must be made in which a small classification (name of the Corporate Document File) that summarizes corporate documents that have a mutually close relationship is first conducted in accordance with the characteristics and content of AMED's clerical work and business, a medium classification that summarizes those small classifications is conducted next, and then a large classification that further summarizes those medium classifications is conducted, and then easy-to-understand names must be given to each of those classifications.

(Preservation periods)

Article 15.

- 1. Employees must set the preservation period of Corporate Document Files according to Attached Table 1. Provided, however, that for corporate documents that do not fall under the types of corporate documents stated in that table, the document manager will conduct discussions with the director of the supervisory division, in accordance with the characteristics and content of the clerical work and business under the jurisdiction of the division or overseas office, and then stipulate standard document preservation period criteria for the division or overseas office, and employees can then set preservation periods according to those criteria.
- 2. For corporate documents that have been deemed as falling under the historical public records and archives of Article 2.6 of the Act, a preservation period of at least one year will be set when setting the preservation period of Article 15.1.
- 3. The initial date of the preservation period of Article 13.1 will be April 1 of the fiscal year after the fiscal year that includes the date when corporate documents were created or acquired (hereinafter referred to as the "Date of Document Creation or Acquisition"). Provided, however, that in the event that the document manager recognizes that making the initial date a date other than April 1 and within one year after the Date of Document Creation or Acquisition will contribute to appropriate management of corporate documents, it will be that date.
- 4. The preservation period of Article 13.3 will be the preservation period for the corporate documents that were put together in the Corporate Document File.
- 5. The initial date of the preservation period of Article 13.3 will be April 1 of the fiscal year after the fiscal year that includes the earliest date (hereinafter referred to as the "File Creation Date") of the dates when corporate documents were put together in the Corporate Document File. Provided, however, that in the event that the document manager recognizes that making the initial date a date other than April 1 and within one year after the File Creation Date will contribute to appropriate management of corporate documents, it will be that date.

6. The provisions of the previous two clauses will not apply for corporate documents for which the preservation period is a period that is uncertain on the Date of Document Creation or Acquisition or for the Corporate Document File in which such corporate documents were put together.

Chapter 5: Preservation

(Points for preserving the Corporate Document Files)

Article 16.

- The general document manager will create Points for Preserving the Corporate Document Files (hereinafter referred to as the "Preservation Points") in order to contribute to the appropriate preservation of the Corporate Document Files and promote centralized management.
- 2. The Preservation Points must state the matters listed below.
 - (1) Preservation places and methods for paper documents
 - (2) Preservation places and methods for electronic documents
 - (3) Handover procedures
 - (4) Other measures for ensuring appropriate preservation

(Preservation)

Article 17.

- Document managers must follow the Preservation Points to implement measures for appropriately preserving the Corporate Document Files that belong to the division or overseas office until the dates when the preservation periods of the relevant Corporate Document Files expire, and when handover will be made to another document manager due to a personnel transfer, appropriate handover must be conducted.
- 2. Corporate documents will, in principle, be systematically managed in electronic media, except in cases where preservation in paper media is required by laws or regulations, or where electronic management would make operations inefficient.

Article 18.

Of the corporate documents that are stored or preserved in the division or overseas office, those that are important must be stored in a book room for which emergency removal is clearly indicated.

(Borrowing and reading preserved documents)

Article 19.

- 1. When a person intends to borrow and read a Corporate Document File, the person will fill in the required matters in the list of borrowing and reading Corporate Document Files and then borrow and read the file.
- 2. A person who borrowed and read a Corporate Document File may not do subleasing, separating, or altering of such files.

Chapter 6: Corporate document file management register

(Preparation and public announcement of a corporate document file management register) Article 20.

- The general document manager will use the document management system to prepare AMED's corporate document file management register based on the provisions of Article 15 of the Order for Enforcement of the Public Records and Archives Management Act (Order No. 250 of 2010; hereinafter referred to as the "Enforcement Order").
- 2. The supervisory division must keep the corporate document file management register in a place stipulated in advance, provide it for general access, and make it public on the Internet.
- 3. In the event that the supervisory division has stipulated or changed the office for providing the corporate document file management register for general access, it must publicly announce the place of that office in the Official Gazette.

(Making statements in the corporate document file management register)
Article 21.

- At least one time each fiscal year, the document manager must state in the corporate document file management register the matters stated in each of the items of Article 15.1 of the Enforcement Order, concerning the current state of the Corporate Document Files that the person manages (limited to matters for which the preservation period is at least one year).
- For statements of the previous clause, in the event that they fall under the nondisclosure information stipulated in each of the items of Article 5 of the Incorporated Agency Information Access Act, the document manager must ensure that the relevant nondisclosure information is not clearly indicated.
- 3. In the event that a Corporate Document File for which the preservation period expired was transferred to the National Archives of Japan or disposed of, the document manager must delete the statements in the corporate document file management register that are related to that Corporate Document File and state its name and the date it was transferred or disposed of in a register of transfer and disposal prepared by the general document manager.

Chapter 7: Transfer, disposal, or extension of the preservation period

(Measures when the preservation period expires)

Article 22.

- For Corporate Document Files, the document manager must, based on Attached Table 2 and at the earliest time possible before expiration of the preservation period (in principle, when a Corporate Document File is acquired or created), stipulate the measures for when the preservation period expires of Article 11.4 of the Act and state them in the corporate document file management register.
- 2. When a Corporate Document File will be disposed of based on the provisions of Article 23, the document manager must conduct disposal by cutting it up, deletion of electromagnetic records, and implementation of other appropriate measures in accordance with that Corporate Document File so that the content will not be leaked. When implementing those measures, the document manager will do so by taking sufficient care concerning the Necessity for Maintaining Confidentiality.
- 3. In the event that the document manager recognizes that, for a Corporate Document File that will be transferred based on the provisions of Article 23, it is appropriate to limit use at the National Archives of Japan as a matter that falls under a case stated in Article 16.1.2 of the Act, the person must obtain agreement by the general document manager and then submit an opinion to the National Archives of Japan.

(Transfer or disposal)

Article 23.

For a Corporate Document File for which the preservation period has expired, the document manager must follow the instructions of the general document manager and transfer it to the National Archives of Japan or dispose of it based on the provisions of Article 22.

(Extension of the preservation period)

Article 24.

For a Corporate Document File stated in one of the items below, the document manager must extend its preservation period and the date when the preservation period will expire for the period until the respective date of passage of the period stipulated below in accordance with its classification, even when it is after the expiration of its preservation period. In such a case, when a corporate document that falls under one classification also falls under another classification, it will be preserved for the period until the date when the later of the respective dates of passage of the periods passes.

- (1) A matter that is currently subject to an audit or inspection: The period until the relevant audit or inspection ends
- (2) A matter that is necessary for conducting an action for procedures for a lawsuit that is currently pending: The period until the relevant lawsuit ends
- (3) Matters necessary for conducting an action for procedures for a motion of objection currently pending: The one-year period beginning on the date after the date of a verdict or decision for the relevant motion of objection
- (4) A matter for which a request for disclosure has been made based on the provisions of Article 3 of the Incorporated Agency Information Access Act: The one-year period beginning on the date after the date of a decision of one of the items of Article 9 of the Incorporated Agency Information Access Act
- 2. For a Corporate Document File that is possessed by a division or an overseas office, when the document manager recognizes that it is necessary for handling clerical work of that division or overseas office or for the performance of other duties, the person can stipulate in advance, by a date before the date when that preservation period will expire, an appropriate period for handling that clerical work and extend the relevant preservation period. In such a case, the same will also apply when the preservation period for the relevant extension will be subsequently extended again.

Chapter 8: Inspection, audits, and reporting the state of management

(Inspection and audits)

Article 25.

- The document manager must conduct an inspection at least one time each fiscal year concerning the state of management of the corporate documents for which the person is responsible for managing, and report those results to the general document manager.
- The person responsible for audits must conduct an audit at least one time each fiscal year concerning the state of management of corporate documents, and report those results to the general document manager.
- 3. The general document manager will implement the measures that are necessary for management of corporate documents based on the results of inspections or audits.

(Handling loss)

Article 26.

- 1. In the event that the loss or erroneous disposal of a Corporate Document File has become clear, the document manager must immediately report it to the general document manager.
- When the general document manager has received a report of the previous clause, the person will promptly implement the measures that are necessary in order to prevent the spread of damage.

(Reporting the state of management)

Article 27.

Each fiscal year the general document manager will make a report to the Prime Minister concerning the status of statements in the corporate document file management register and other situations of the management of corporate documents.

Chapter 9: Training

(Implementation of training)

Article 28.

The general document manager will have employees acquire the knowledge and skills that are necessary in order to appropriately and efficiently manage corporate documents or will conduct the training that is necessary for improving their knowledge and skills.

(Participation in training)

Article 29.

The document manager must have employees actively participate in training conducted by the general document manager, the National Archives of Japan, and other organizations.

Chapter 10: Management of confidential documents

(Division of confidential documents)

Article 30.

- 1. Confidential documents will consist of the two types below.
 - (1) Documents for which maintenance of confidentiality is necessary in relation to the content of the case, and for which there is a possibility that a leak of the document will significantly hinder the smooth performance of AMED's work (work-related confidential documents)

- (2) Documents that may not be reported to parties other than the related parties for a reason related to personnel management (personnel-related confidential documents)
- 2. In addition to following the stipulations of other chapters, confidential documents must be managed by taking particularly detailed care according to the provisions of this chapter.
- 3. In the event that a confidential document was lost or confidential information leaked, the document manager will immediately report it to the general document manager.

(Principles for creation and acquisition of confidential documents)
Article 31.

- 1. Creation and acquisition of confidential documents must be kept to the minimum necessary.
- In the event that a document that was created or acquired as a corporate document in relation to duties can be recognized as falling under a confidential document, the Board Members and Employees must strive to receive the designation of Article 32.1 without delay.
- 3. The document manager must strive to ensure that the designation of Article 32.1 is conducted appropriately for the corporate documents that the relevant division or overseas office possesses.

(Designation of confidentiality classifications)

Article 32.

- 1. The document manager will conduct designation for confidential documents according to the classifications of Article 30.1 (hereinafter referred to as the "Confidentiality Classifications").
- 2. For the designation of Article 32.1, the document manager must conduct it carefully and keep it to the minimum necessary.
- 3. For the designation of Article 32.1, the document manager must decide the period in which handling as a confidential document is necessary (hereinafter referred to as the "Confidential Handling Period").
- 4. When the Confidential Handling Period has passed, the relevant corporate document will have lost the Necessity for Maintaining Confidentiality.
- 5. When the document manager recognizes, before the passage of the Confidential Handling Period for a confidential document that the person designated, that the document has lost the Necessity for Maintaining Confidentiality, the person can remove that designation.
- Before the Confidential Handling Period for a confidential document that was designated by the document manager passes, the document manager can change that Confidential Handling Period as necessary.
- 7. When the document manager has conducted the removal of the designation of Article 32.5 or the change of the Confidential Handling Period of Article 32.6 for a confidential document that the person designated, the person will notify the people related to the relevant corporate document of that fact.

(Management of confidential documents)

Article 33.

- For each of the confidential documents that were designated, the document manager must follow the stipulations of these provisions and strive to ensure that they are appropriately managed as confidential documents.
- 2. The document manager can give the assistant document manager(s) an order in advance to assist the relevant designated person with the clerical work stipulated in these provisions, as well as to preserve the confidential documents, take them in and out, and other clerical work related to the management of confidential documents.
- 3. Confidential documents must be managed so that their location will be clear.

(Indication as confidential documents)

Article 34.

- When a confidential document has received designation as a confidential document based on the provisions of Article 32.1, an indication as a confidential document must be appropriately affixed.
- For the indication as a confidential document, for each case the matters stated below and the matters recognized as necessary for appropriately indicating the fact that it is a confidential document are to be stated on the relevant confidential document.
 - (1) The Confidentiality Classification that was designated based on the provisions of Article 32.1
 - (2) The Confidential Handling Period
 - (3) In the event that the document was created, the name of the division or overseas office that conducted that creation
- 3. For a corporate document other than a confidential document, indication as a confidential document or affixing a similar indication may not be conducted.
- 4. For Board Members and Employees who created or acquired a confidential document, the document manager can take the action stated below concerning the relevant confidential document.
 - (1) For a corporate document that should be affixed with an indication as a confidential document, order the person to affix that indication.
 - (2) In the event that indication as a confidential document is not appropriate, issue instructions for the appropriate indication and order correction.

(Handling of administrative organs' confidential documents)

Article 35.

When a confidential document that was designated by an administrative organ was acquired, it will be handled in the same way as the management of confidential documents that is stipulated in these provisions.

(Duplication of confidential documents)

Article 36.

- 1. Copies of confidential documents may not be created unless approval is obtained from the person who designated them as confidential.
- "Confidential" must be indicated on copies of confidential documents, and they must be managed appropriately as confidential documents.

(Delivery of confidential documents)

Article 37.

In the event that a confidential document will be sent, it will be sealed shut, and when it will be sent by postal mail, it will be registered mail, and when a courier service will be used, and then a receipt will be obtained from the person responsible for receiving the document.

(Preservation of confidential documents)

Article 38.

Confidential documents must be separated from other documents and appropriately preserved in a book room that can be locked or in another place where it is possible to equivalently prevent leaks of confidential documents.

(Disposal of confidential documents)

Article 39.

When the disposal of confidential documents will be conducted based on the provisions of Article 23, they must be disposed of by incinerating them or by another method that makes it possible to equivalently prevent leaks of confidential information.

Chapter 11: Delivery and acceptance of corporate documents

(Received documents)

Article 40.

For documents that were delivered from a party outside AMED, the sender, the name of the matter, the receipt number, and other necessary matters will be entered into the document management system, and the receipt number can be a serial number that changes based on the calendar year.

(Dispatched documents)

Article 41.

- In principle, the document number stipulated in the Provisions for Final Decisions (Provision No. 11 of 2015) and the date of dispatch will be stated in dispatched documents.
- 2. If necessary, an official seal and a seal over the edges of adjacent pages will be affixed to dispatched documents.

Chapter 12: Auxiliary Provisions

(Relationship with other laws and ordinances)

Article 42.

In the event that, based on the provisions of a law or an order based on a law, special stipulations have been set for the classification, creation, preservation, or disposal of corporate documents or for other matters related to corporate documents management, the stipulations of the relevant law or the order based on that law will be followed for the relevant matters.

Notes

- I. In this table, the meanings of the terms stated below will be as stipulated respectively below.
 - 1. Plan basis document: A document in which the work policy and plans that were the basis for a plan are recorded
 - 2. Meeting document: A document that was submitted as a material for consideration to a meeting or other council system organization, a committee for which the constituent members are people who have specialized knowledge, or another gathering (in this table, referred to as the "Committee"), a document in which the proceedings, a report on findings, a proposal, a report, or the opinions of a meeting were recorded, or another document in which the decisions or consent of a meeting, or the process of reaching those decisions or consent, were recorded
 - 3. Investigative research document: A document in which the results of an investigation or research, and the process for reaching those results, are recorded
 - 4. Final decision document: A corporate document for which the content was decided or confirmed as the intention of AMED by a person who has authority for making decisions for AMED affixing a seal, signing it, or conducting a similar action
- II. For each of the clauses from 1 through 15, matters for which a preservation period is separately stipulated by a law, ordinance, the National Personnel Authority's rules, or other provisions or a notification will be according to those stipulations.
- II. For corporate documents to which this table does not apply, the document manager will refer to the provisions of this table and then stipulate standard document

Attached Table 2 (Related to Article 22)

Measures when a preservation period ends

1. Fundamental perspectives

The purpose in Article 1 of the Act states that "public records and archives as records of historical facts and various activities of the State and incorporated administrative agencies should be available for independent use by the citizens, who have popular sovereignty, as an intellectual resource to be shared by the people in supporting the basis of sound democracy" and that "ensuring accountability of the State and incorporated administrative agencies to the public for their various activities in both the present and future," Article 4 of the Act stipulates that documents must be created to make it possible to inquire into or logically observe the decision-making processes, including their background, and the results of affairs and business, and documents that fall into one of the items I through IV below fall under "official documents and other documents that are important as historical materials" and will be transferred to the National Archives of Japan after the preservation period expires.

- Documents in which the organizations and functions of the State's institutions and incorporated administrative agencies, and important information related to the consideration process, decisions, implementation, and results of policies are recorded
- II. Documents in which important information related to citizens' rights and obligations are recorded
- III. Documents in which important information related to the social environment and the natural environment that surround citizens are recorded
- IV. Documents in which important information related to the State's history, culture, academic matters, or cases are recorded
- 2. Specific judgment policy for transfer or disposal

Based on the fundamental perspectives of item 1, the judgment for measures when the preservation period for an individual Corporate Document File expires (transfer or disposal) will be made according to (1) and (2) below.

(1) Measures when a preservation period for a Corporate Document File for the work stated in Attached Table 1 expires will be as stated in the right-hand division of the table below (the
